Who's the rat now?

Gaddafi called the rebels who rose against him "rats," but he was captured cowering in a drainage pipe. "We ... brought Gaddafi out," said rebel fighter Salem Bakeer. "He was saying 'What's wrong? What's going on?' Then we took him and put him in the car." REUTERS

Joyous celebrations as Gaddafi rule ends

- Strongman found, killed after years in power and months on the run from rebels
- Libyans around the world take to streets to share moment
- Horror not over for thousands of families
- Tough road going forward

► Young Libyan national women react to a video showing the moment of Gaddafi's capture during celebrations outside the Libyan embassy in London, England.

Gunfire echoed across Libya's main cities Thursday as crowds poured into the streets to celebrate the death of Muammar Gaddafi, ruler of the North African nation for 42 years.

Initially, fighters in camouflage garb flashed victory signs, fired their weapons into the air and danced as news spread that Gaddafi's hometown of Sirte had fallen. The celebrations, televised by international broadcasters, reached a crescendo with the announcement that ► Did this young man kill Gaddafi? Reports are mixed.

Gaddafi had died. Men toted their children on their shoulders as groups of civilians formed swirling circles to dance.

"This is the happiest moment of my life," said Ibrahim Suleiman, a 22-year-old driver in the city of Benghazi. "When I heard the news on television, I didn't believe it; I ran off to the streets and I started jumping up and down."

In Sirte, cries of "Allahu Akbar," or "God is Great," rang out. In Tripoli, once Gaddafi's seat of power, children and ululating women took to the streets to celebrate alongside men. Some held photos of dead loved ones.

In scenes similar to those that played out in Egypt after President Hosni Mubarak was toppled in February, Libyans — waving the tri-color flags that have become a symbol of their revolution — chanted: "Raise your head up high; you're a free Libyan." Others yelled: "The blood of martyrs will not go in vain." BLOOMBERG

What's next for Libya?

LONDON. The death of Muammar Gaddafi will be regarded as a victory for the Libyan people, NATO and democracy. But euphoria at the demise of a dictator should not disguise the problems faced by the new Libyan government in cementing peace, rebuilding and implementing good governance in the north African nation, analysts said.

Analysts stressed the National Transitional Council, which led resistance to Gaddafi, had won the war but would need to act quickly and decisively to take advantage of the peace.

Tribal differences, disputes between militia leaders and the expected involvement of exile groups would complicate the task.

"The real battle begins now to rein in the [rebels] and integrate them under the legal umbrella of the state in one of its various bureaucracies, army or police," said Larbi Sadiki, expert on North African politics at Exeter University. REUTERS

"There remains the biggest challenge of all: reconstruction and the battle for good government."

SADIKI

News in brief

Obama warns other leaders

WASHINGTON. President Barack Obama hailed Muammar Gaddafi's death as a warning to authoritarian leaders across the Middle East that ironfisted rule "inevitably comes to an end" and as vindication for his cautious U.S. strategy on Libya. REUTERS

So who pulled the trigger?

SIRTE. The exact circumstances of Gaddafi's demise are still unclear. In a video filmed by a bystander, Gaddafi is shown being dragged off a truck and pulled to the ground by his hair. "Keep him alive," someone shouts. Gunshots then ring out. The camera veers off.

But Libya's ruling body said Gaddafi was killed when a gunfight broke out after his capture between supporters and rebels. It said no order had been given to kill him. REUTERS

Thousands are still missing

GENEVA. Dead bodies are being found regularly in mass graves, hospitals and other sites in Libya, including on roadsides, the International Committee of the Red Cross said. The agency said that thousands of families were waiting to find out what had happened to missing loved ones. REUTERS

Some closure, hope for Lockerbie victims

Prosecution

In January 2001, Libyan agent Abdel Basset al-Megrahi was convicted for the bombing by a Scottish court sitting in the Netherlands. The court acquitted his co-defendant, Al-Amin Khalifa Fahima.

Al-Megrahi was sentenced to life in prison but released by Scottish authorities on health grounds in August 2009, a decision that infuriated members of the victims' group. But Scotland's First Minister Alex Salmond said that al-Megrahi did not act alone. "Our police and prosecution authorities stand ready to investigate," Salmond said.

► Families of those killed in 1988 bombing react with joy ► Say they are sure Gaddafi was behind the attack

Families of victims killed in the Libyan bombing of a U.S. airliner over Scotland in 1988 said justice was served with the death of Libyan leader Muammar Gaddafi on Thursday — but they also hoped it would reveal others behind the attack.

"I hope he's in hell with Hitler," said Kathy Tedeschi, whose first husband, Bill Daniels, was among the 270 people killed in the 1988 bombing of Pan Am Flight 103 over Lockerbie, Scotland. "I just can't stop crying. I am so thrilled."

"I am sure [Gaddafi] was the one who pushed to "The world is a much better place without Gaddafi, and Libya is certainly much better off. I hope we can get some more information and get on with our lives."

BOB MONETTI, WHOSE SON RICHARD, 20, WAS KILLED IN THE BOMBING

have this done, the bombing," said Tedeschi, 62, whose three children were aged 10, 7 and 2 when their father was killed.

Bob Monetti, whose son Richard, 20, was killed in the Lockerbie bombing said: "The world is a much better place without Gaddafi. I am way past vengeance."

The Pan Am airliner exploded as it flew to New York from London on Dec. 21, 1988. All 259 people aboard the aircraft were killed, and 11 others on the ground in Lockerbie also died from falling wreckage. REUTERS

Super-rich call New York home

► More worth $30 million live here than anywhere else ► Meanwhile, one in five New Yorkers in poverty

No wonder Occupy Wall Street started their protest here. According to a new report, New York is home to more members of the top 1 percent than anywhere else in the country.

The city has 7,720 residents worth $30 million or more. New York has more of the mega-rich than any other city in the U.S., according to the report from Wealth-X, a company that connects "ultra high-net-worth individuals" with nonprofits.

With 55,000 people worth $30 million or more in the U.S., that means one in 10 of the country's ultra-rich live in New York City. "It's a testament to the region's financial stability and resilience," said David Lincoln, Wealth-X's director of research.

Among the super-rich making their home in the city are Mayor Michael Bloomberg, reportedly worth $18 billion. His colleagues on the list include David Koch, worth at least $24 billion, and investor George Soros, worth nearly $20 billion.

The survey findings come at a time when 20 percent of New York City residents live below the poverty line, which is about $18,000 for a family of three.

Halloween. Treat — or trick?

► The above scarecrow was hung up on East Fifth Street in the Brooklyn neighborhood of Kensington.

Outrage over hanging scarecrow

Some are enraged over a scarecrow seen hanging on a tree in Brooklyn earlier this week. City Councilman Charles Barron said the scarecrow's face was painted black and is reminiscent of a lynching. "It's the 21st century, and we still have to deal with this ignorance," Barron said. Neighbors said the scarecrow is put up every Halloween. Police took it down on Wednesday. ●METRO/EAE

Replacement windows are in the budget this year.

In our current economy, some folks have put off replacing their windows, but with 0% FREE financing for five years, you can't afford to put it off any longer. There isn't a bank around where you can borrow money without paying interest, but that's exactly what we're offering. Get the replacement windows every homeowner wants, while keeping more of your money in your pocket.

With installers this skilled, we even warranty your installation†.

Most companies will warranty their windows—but with a few unpredictable workers—they won't warranty their installations. Renewal by Andersen Master Installers only come to your home after they've been trained, tested and trusted. With teams that average 10+ years of window installation experience, most installations—including the cleanup—are completed in just one day.

For a strong window that will last, look to the company that has lasted.

Renewal by Andersen is the exclusive start-to-finish replacement window subsidiary of Andersen Windows—a company with a 108 year reputation for quality. Our replacement windows are held to Andersen's same high standard, while some other, less reliable windows have been reported to leak and fail after just a few years.

Cash flowed while NJ gov. weighed bid

Chris Christie's fundraising swing through western states last month brought in at least $530,000 as former U.S. Attorney General John Ashcroft and a Stifel Financial Corp. co-chairman helped the New Jersey governor shatter the out-of-state fundraising record.

His trips generated more than $620,000 from non-New Jersey sources, out of almost $1.5 million raised by the state Republican Party in the quarter that ended last month, according to a New Jersey Election Law Enforcement Commission filing.

Christie, 49, the first Republican elected governor in New Jersey since 1997, spent the last week of Sep-

Givers

This sweet coed five-piece temper their world music flavor with charisma, distortion pedals and electronic undertones. And, when they jump up and down on stage, their energy is contagious. Just make sure you don't get the beer of the guy behind you all over your clothes when you start pogo-ing. Get there early, because the lineup is probably the best bang-for-your-buck bill in all of CMJ. Free Energy and Unknown Mortal Orchestra have both received quite a bit of ► Givers turned in an energetic show on Thursday at Ace Hotel. They play again on Saturday.

Metro Ink, and Gotye is a Belgian-Australian songwriter who has a really great knack for matching up catchy tunes with the right off-kilter instrumentation. Saturday, midnight, Brooklyn Bowl

An Horse

This Aussie duo plays a punky sort of indie rock that recalls the glory days of bands like Superchunk and Sebadoh. Drummer Damon Cox and singer-guitarist Kate Cooper wail on their instruments with a focused agitation. Guitars are fuzzy, melodies are pretty and Cooper is a woman who knows the nuances of a well-delivered cuss word.

Yellow Ostrich

It's easy to get distracted by the unique instrumentation and cool gadgets that Alex Schaaf surrounds his songs with. Even though it's amazing that utility guy Jon Natchez is playing a huge sax and sampling himself several times over to sound like a horn section, and Schaaf is sampling his voice as many times to sound like a choir, none of it would really matter if the songs weren't so sturdy. Best lyric: "Mary, you are doing drugs/Don't you think we know?/You've always seemed a little too happy. Mary." Saturday, 11:40 p.m., The Delancey

On the scene

Dinosaurs: Bony, feathery and Totally Enormous

The word du jour for CMJ acts this year seems to be "dinosaur." There's Dinosaur Bones, a great indie rock outfit from Toronto who played earlier this week. There's Dinosaur Feathers, who at times sound like Jack White playing tropical music. They play Bruar Hall in Brooklyn on Saturday night. And then there is possibly the most awesome band name of any act playing CMJ this year: Totally Enormous Extinct Dinosaurs! They play a whacked out hybrid of electronic music that somehow sounds very human, and they're at Santos Party House on Friday night and at Cameo Gallery on Saturday night. Lady Lamb the Beekeeper Aly Spaltro sometimes sounds like a heartbroken old lady, weaving lyrics so wise you'd swear they were written by a poet laureate. Oh, and did we mention she's only 22?

She plays guitar fluidly and has mastered a dynamic where she will be shouting passionately one minute and gently cooing and cradling listeners' hearts the next, all the while stringing phrases together that surprise with each new unveiled word. Friday, 8 p.m., Rockwood Music Hall

En Vogue

En Vogue? Aren't they, like, from the '90s or something? Free your mind! You might think they're not quite as untouchable as they once were, but what part of "You're Never Gonna Get It" did you not understand? These funky divas have returned and are as badass as they ever were. Friday, 9 p.m., B. B. King's

En Vogue

Action Bronson, Chris Webby, Kid Ink, Dom Kennedy, French Montana, Machine Gun Kelly

This is the best rap-for-your-buck show. Machine Gun Kelly, a self-described "little white boy from the Midwest" spits words so rapidly that his moniker is well-deserved. We can't get enough of Dom Kennedy's "2mph" song, and Kid Ink is probably the only rapper with enough guts to sample Survivor, Cyndi Lauper and Queen. And we're not talking "We Will Rock You" Queen, we're talking Freddie Mercury's last album with the band. Against these ambitious samples, Kid Ink raps funny rhymes like how he's "walkin' like a giant, fee-fi-foe-in'" and "runnin' like I've got the legs of a centipede." It's clear he's going somewhere. Dum Dum Girls get smart

LAUREN DUFFO

► We like to call the style of music that the Dum Dum Girls play Oldies on Drugs. What does Dee Dee, third from left, think of that? Download our podcast at www.metro.us/mixtape.

The difference between the music of "I Will Be," the Dum Dum Girls' 2010 debut, and this year's "Only in Dreams," is undeniable. Yet singer and guitarist Kristen Gundred tries to deny it. At least at first.

"To me it's not a dramatic shift," she says. "It's part of a process."

The singer, who writes all of the songs and goes by the stage name of Dee Dee, says that if there is any difference, it may have to do with her recording setup.

"When I started, it was just something I was doing in my spare time in my house — the first songs I had written, my first attempts at recording myself — and the context of what I was doing was very different," she says, "but what I do, it hasn't changed much. I write simple pop songs, and try to infuse them with meaningful words. That's always been my deal."

It's hard to tell if she's being humble or stubborn. While all Dum Dum songs do fit Dee Dee's description — both albums showcase

'Gets Me High'

The Dum Dum Girls EP from this summer, "He Gets Me High," is a perfect transition between the two types of Dum Dum sounds. It also features a killer cover of The Smiths' "There Is A Light That Never Goes Out."

"A lot of times, it's just a song I love," says Dee Dee of her covers philosophy. "Or it's something where regardless of the style ... there's an undeniable pop element of the song I can cover in a very Dum Dum Girls way."

an appreciation for both the classic songs of the '50s and '60s as well as the punk rock that followed in the next two decades — the biggest change is that on the debut, the guitars flood over elementary melodies, while the "Only in Dreams" sound is full of proud and pronounced melodies that float on top of richly textured instruments and background vocals. Dee Dee at times even sounds like Pretenders singer Chrissie Hynde, a comparison which would have never worked for the first album.

The lyrics are also more sophisticated on the most recent offering, at times dealing with the singer's mother's fatal illness.

One thing that Dee Dee will admit is that her tone has definitely changed.

"I was sort of into having a bit more of a nonchalant tone at the time," she says of the debut, "and that's just not appropriate for the most recent batch of songs."

Movie review

► "Paranormal Activity 3" takes the prequel approach by showing heroine Katie in her younger years.

The high art of looking lo-fi

'Paranormal Activity 3'

Director: Henry Joost

Cast: Katie Featherston, Sprague Grayden

Rating: R Grade: 000000

The new "Paranormal" film is a prequel to the first films and follows the template set by the first two movies. Set in the VHS era of 1988, recurring characters Katie and Kristi Rey are little girls living with their mother (Lauren Bittner) and her boyfriend (Christopher Nicholas Smith), a wedding video editor. When they start hearing strange sounds in their new house, he sets up video cameras to find out what's keeping them up at night. The movie asks the question, "Is the boyfriend obsessed, or is the house possessed?"

The movie did frighten us — but only in the last 15 minutes, which were terrific. It was a bit too long getting going and had a bit too much dark humor to create that air of dread right off the top.

It takes real filmmaking talent to look this artless. One thing that's great about the series, and this movie in particular, is how much of the plot takes place at the edges of the screen. You really have to pay attention to see what's happening in the frame. Also pleasing was the fact that the movie had a backstory and plot; although, cleverly, you don't realize it until the movie is done. MARK BRESLIN

'Weird Al' Yankovic performs this way

► Says he may have more costume changes than Gaga ► He never makes fun of artists without an OK

"Weird Al" Yankovic is known throughout the world as music's foremost cultural satirist. Famous for his timely parodies of hits throughout the decades, he is more than just a novelty act. With three Grammys, nine nominations, four gold records and six platinum, Yankovic's latest release, "Alpocalypse," debuted at No. 9 on the Billboard charts — his highest charting record ever.

"When you do song parodies, you try to do songs that are timely, topical and current," says Yankovic backstage in Orlando. "If it isn't the song, you want the topic to be timely, topical and current. That's what I try to do. It's an ephemeral argument to be of the moment and be very fresh."

Known for his witty lyrical takes on some of music's biggest hits, with hilarious videos to match, "Weird Al" continues to keep mainstream pop stars on their toes. For the most part, he gets their blessings — and later their compliments — for his comedic takes on their originals. And while getting permission to do his parodies isn't legally necessary, he makes sure to get the OK of each artist he satirizes.

"The thing is, I always ask," says Yankovic. "It's very rare that they do turn me down, but when they do, it's a simple no and there's no explanation. It's necessary, because I would feel really odd if I was doing it without their blessing. I know what I can get away with legally, but I want to sleep at night and I want to take the high Yankovic has been turned down by Prince, and most recently he was rejected by James Blunt. He also had a misunderstanding with Coolio, and came against some initial dissension from Lady Gaga's camp.

But after posting a video of "Perform This Way," Gaga approved its inclusion on Yankovic's new release. "She loved it and thought it was an empowering song and a rite of passage," says Yankovic, who donated all proceeds from the song and video to the Human Rights Campaign.

road. If the artist really doesn't want me to do a parody, I will back off."

His most recent hit is "Perform This Way," a parody of Lady Gaga's "Born This Way," but he says that's not all he has in common with Mama Monster.

"I've been told we have more costume changes than Lady Gaga at this point," he says of his current tour.

Bean goes Bond

'Johnny English Reborn'

Director: Oliver Parker

Cast: Rowan Atkinson,

Rosamund Pike

Rating: PG Grade: ****

You can be excused for questioning the need to resurrect Rowan Atkinson's James Bond spoof eight years after we all roundly ignored the original. The sequel still relies on bad puns and sight gags to hold the attention of its audience (mostly pre-pubescent boys). But as far as movies with bad puns and sight gags go, this one is pretty good. Thank Atkinson for that, as he still has the ability to make this character loveable while mugging for the camera.

'Three Musketeers' 3-D: All style but no swagger

'The Three Musketeers'

Rating: PG-13

Grade: ****

"All for one, and one for all" — that hackneyed battle cry of 17th century swashbuckling mustached Frenchmen has been croaked yet again. This time round, director Paul W.S. Anderson of the much-maligned "Resident Evil" saga is in charge of injecting joie de vivre into this ol' Dumas tale.

On the face of it, Anderson has the weaponry to carry the story of the usual gang of four into the 21st century: an "ensemble" cast of some critical clout (Logan Lerman, Matthew Macfadyen, cult favorite Milla Jovovich and Orlando Bloom) along with sumptuous decor and locations, all glittering in lush 3-D.

The director may have the wherewithal, but where is the story, the substance? One would be at pains to find it. From the opening scene, when one musketeer rises from a Venetian canal donning a black ninja costume, we are treated to a litany of faux pas and anachronisms: dodgy American accents in European settings, staccato and predictable punchlines that are utterly forgettable and eye-rolling action sequences involving "steampunk-inspired" gargantuan blimps.

What pleasure can be gained from this garish, irreverent display? Perhaps smirching at Orlando Bloom's hyperreal pompadour coif and frill-necked costumes. Yes, this self-consciously stupid movie doesn't take itself seriously — but worst of all, it has that flippant attitude toward its audience.

Money puts us to sleep

► It's hard to find a finance thriller exciting, which is why 'Margin Call' is somewhat lifeless ► Even the best acting can't save a movie that has money as its star

The term "finance thriller" is an oxymoron. It's pretty difficult to make stock market figures exciting unless there's some fallout carnage as a result. Oliver Stone's 1987 film "Wall Street" is rightly iconic, but it didn't get classic status because it was a fun movie to watch. Michael Douglas, as Gordon Gekko, defined yuppie culture. As we all know, Stone's 2010 sequel, "Wall Street 2: Money Never Sleeps" was an abject failure. And with "Margin Call" it's officially proven: Money can be a character's motive, but it can't star as the main character.

The film attempts to explain some of what happened in the financial crisis of 2008 and it's all words and no action. To borrow a phrase from the film, "A Hard Day's Night," it takes place in "a room and a car and a room and a room and a room." Brows are furrowed, cityscapes are gazed upon thoughtfully and Jeremy Irons bangs his fists on a table. There is something educational in seeing how well-meaning underlings were asked to commit career suicide by dumping junk stocks on trusted colleagues who knew less than they did. There's an effort made here to explore morality and selfishness. But it's hard to imagine stakes that are represented by shuffled papers and mathematical formulas.

► Zachary Quinto and Penn Badgely contemplate stocks, bonds and other boring things.

► 'The Three Musketeers' returns, this time in 3-D and with floating air ships ► 'The movie doesn't take itself seriously,' says co-star Bloom

"The Three Musketeers" are back again, but this time, we get "action fresh and modern for the younger audience," according to director and co-producer Paul W.S. Anderson, the man behind the "Resident Evil" saga.

"I felt that every generation ought to get its own version of 'The Three Musketeers' — one that reflects of that particular decade," he says of the 1844 classic by Alexandre Dumas. So in essence: a new cast, some peppy dialogue and novel visual effects — all in trendy 3-D.

Anderson's "stellar ensemble cast" has some degree of critical acclaim: Logan Lerman, who leads as D'Artagnan, is coming-of-age in Hollywood, having appeared in "Percy Jackson." Among the bad guys, Oscar-winner Christoph Waltz plays the conniving Richelieu, and actor Orlando Bloom appears as the dastardly Duke of Buckingham.

D'Artagnan and his buddy Musketeers must protect the King of France from those two maniacs.

Orlando Bloom

"The movie doesn't take itself seriously," Bloom confesses. "This is a pop-culture, tongue-in-cheek, irreverent, fun, 'go buy a big bag of popcorn and take a trip' version of the movie. It's not a historically accurate retelling of 'The Three Musketeers' that the novelist wrote." Bloom's devious Duke, with his hyperreal pompadour coif and garish frill-necked outfits, seems an epitome of the movie's self-caricature. Even the Musketeers prefer to guzzle booze than spruce themselves up for action.

"I don't know why we didn't get the theme music from [the 80's cartoon] 'Dogtanian and the Three Musketeers' — instead we got [British pop stars] Take That," Macfadyen jokes. "What's more, I had a pang of jealousy for Orlando's costumes."

"All for one, and one for all — it does exactly what it says on the tin," says Bloom, adding: "and it's in 3-D, and it has a gigantic air ship."

You — yes, you! — can throw a dinner party

Key points

Don't overwhelm yourself

"We are not suggesting that you make seven items for a dinner party," says Donenfeld. "We are suggesting that you make three to five. It's definitely a more do-able roster of recipes. There's always a make-ahead element and we specify that very clearly so you are never frazzled trying to do everything at the last moment."

Smile and enjoy it

"The number one ingredient of a good party is a good attitude," Gordon says.

► It's easier than you think ► Let cooking pros Jill Donenfeld and Josie Gordon show you the way

The dinner party: It's a right of passage for every adult, often inducing great fear and anxiety in its hosts. But you don't have to work yourself into a tizzy over appetizers, entrees, desserts and drinks, say authors Jill Donenfeld and Josie Gordon. Here, they offer tips and tricks from their new cookbook, "Party Like a Culinista."

Rule No. 1 is to forgo expectations

"Get rid of the pretense of having a party," says Gordon. "It will take a ton off of your shoulders, because you'll feel more in control." Adds Donenfeld: "This about bringing people together through food. This is not about presenting people with the most perfectly plated quarter-inch-cut cube."

Choose the right ingredients

"Always to be mindful of where you get your ingredients [so you can be] proud of what you prepared and happy that your guests are eating foods that are helpful to them and the environment," Gordon advises.

Mix the right music

"I always ask a friend to make a playlist, one of the guests who I think has really great taste in music," Donenfeld offers. "I think that it is something that can fade into the back-says. "It doesn't matter if they are deli flowers — flowers make your apartment look beautiful and festive. If you forget the flowers, throw all of those extra herbs that you're not using in a vase or mason jar and make a bouquet of herbs. It smells beautiful and it looks great."

Set up snacks

"You always have that one friend who is the early bird. Have something ready like popcorn, a cheese platter, guacamole — something to keep them seated and at bay," says Donenfeld.

THE WORD

Metro's Monica Weymouth shares her take on the world of gossip t @monicaatmetro ■ monica.weymouth@metro.us — Dorothy Robinson will return on Tuesday.

Remember when she cared enough to get a spray tan and brush her hair for us?
From left: Lindsay Lohan's court booking photo from Wednesday evening, Sept. 2010, July 2010, Nov. 2007 and July 2007.

Lindsay off to a bad start

WWW.METRO.US/WORD
VISIT US ONLINE FOR MORE

Less than 24 hours after being taken into custody for failing to perform her court-ordered community service, Lindsay Lohan managed to show up late to her new gig at the L.A. County Morgue and was turned away.

Not that it was her fault, of course. In a statement to TMZ, the sometimes-actress' publicist explained that she was 40 minutes late Thursday morning due to "a combination of not knowing what entrance to go through and confusion caused by the media waiting for her arrival."

The girl's had a rough couple years. And if today goes "well," she'll be cleaning autopsy tables. So we're willing to ignore that little "blame the media" dig for now. But just a warning, Linds: We're fresh out of material on you, and these "Lindsay Lohan was late to the morgue" jokes are writing themselves over here. Play nice.

No hard feelings from Jill Zarin

Although her job for four years was essentially to gossip and manufacture drama on "The Real Housewives of New York," ex-cast member Jill Zarin was all air kisses when discussing the show with Parade.com: "I had a four-year run on a very successful show. And it's just now starting to air in Europe. I get about 50 e-mails a day from the U.K., Germany, Israel and Australia — we're all over the world. The show will continue — good or bad — to live on in reruns on Bravo and any other network."

That's right: worldwide undead "Real Housewives." The end, friends, is certainly near.

Kellan Lutz isn't gay, ladies — he's just not that into you

"I've heard that people think I'm gay. I've heard it all," the actor tells the Advocate. "See, I don't really go after girls. Most of the girlfriends I've had have come after me.

So it's really funny when girls get offended because I don't hit on them. They will transform their insecurity into, 'Oh, that makes sense, because I heard you're into guys and have a boyfriend.' I'm like, 'Seriously? That's your tactic to get me to like you?'"

No, Kellan. I opted for a super creepy caption-writing spree when "Twilight: New Moon" came out. Which, I'd like to point out, was also suspiciously unsuccessful.

Talking points

French don't care, but we do

Carla Bruni-Sarkozy and her husband, French president Nicolas Sarkozy, welcomed their first child, Giulia, this week, according to The Telegraph. The baby is the first child born to a ruling French leader since Napoleon. Of course, the new mom doesn't see this as news, as Bruni-Sarkozy told the BBC last month: "There isn't much to say. So many women are expecting children and giving birth, and it's so uninteresting for French people."

Hurray for ScarJoseph!

A work-related meeting reportedly led to something more for Scarlett Johansson and Joseph

Gordon-Levitt, as sources tell Us Weekly the two were spotted making out in New York recently. "They were kissing," a source says. "They were very lovey."

A girl for Jessica?

Reports on Jessica Simpson's alleged pregnancy have moved past when she'll announce it and onto what the gender of the baby will be. And the answer is a girl, according to Hollyscoop. "She's telling people it's like winning the lottery, twice," a source says of Simpson. "Jessica really wanted to find out the baby's sex, she hates surprises. She and [fiance] Eric [Johnson] are both so happy."

Taylor Swift: Not that girl

Taylor Swift says she's extremely single these days — and very happy that way. "I don't have a boyfriend. I don't even have, like, kind of a boyfriend. I don't have someone that I'm texting that is a guy that someday might be my boyfriend," the country crooner tells Ellen DeGeneres during a visit to her talk show. "If you're the girl that needs a boyfriend, and once she loses that boyfriend needs to replace it with a different boyfriend, it's just this constant stream of boyfriends all the time. I don't ever want to be that girl."

Where are they now? Stars with criminal records

As Lindsay Lohan's courtroom drama is renewed for yet another season, we take this time to check in on other stars who have gotten into trouble with the law.

1. All eyes are on Lindsay Lohan as we await her next court date on Nov. 2, where she may be facing some serious jail time. She was seen here attending a court hearing in Los Angeles, Calif., on Wednesday.

2. She spoke of new beginnings during her jail time in 2007, but just last month, Paris Hilton completed her one-year probation for her 2010 drug arrest. There may be no new beginning, but this is surely not the end for Hilton, who was seen here attending the "Dirty Dancing" musical premiere in Germany on Wednesday.

3. Shia LaBeouf looked all prim and proper at the "Transformers: Dark of the Moon" premiere in New York City in June, but just last week the actor — who was arrested for driving under the influence in 2008 — got into a fistfight outside a bar in Vancouver.

4. George Michael has been arrested a number of times — even landing in jail last year — and we're guessing that the British pop star won't be keeping quiet for much longer. Here, he was performing in the Czech Republic in August.

5. The character she played on "The O.C." led a dramatic life, and in reality, Mischia Barton has had a few legal issues of her own. But these days at least, it looks like history is not going to repeat itself: She looked fresh-faced at the launch of her own handbag line in New York City last month.

6. Nicole Richie, who attended ELLE's 18th Annual Women In Hollywood Event in Beverly Hills, Calif., on Monday, is certainly projecting herself as a proud mother, a devoted wife and a good citizen — her drug-using and illegal-driving days are over!

JOAN MARCUS

'MAMMA MIA!'

CELEBRATING 10 YEARS ON BROADWAY

► 'Take A Chance' on this fun, fluffy musical featuring your favorite ABBA hits ► Ten weeks of special events have led up to the monumental decade mark

Ranking No. 10 among the longest-running shows on Broadway, "Mamma Mia!" is fourth among those still onstage — coming in only behind "Phantom of the Opera," "Chicago" and "The Lion King." The production has been celebrating throughout NYC for 10 weeks, with live events ranging from parties and benefits to a sing-along screening of 2008's movie adaptation starring Meryl Streep. It's all been leading up to this week's big anniversary of opening night on Oct. 18, 2001.

This jukebox musical sets the standard, placing '70s ABBA hits ("Dancing Queen," "Money, Money, Money," "Take A Chance On Me") against a millennial fairy tale that incorporates the songs into its narrative. On the eve of her wedding, a young woman invites her three potential fathers to the small Greek island where she and her mother reside and run a tavern. Bride-to-be Sophie (Liana Hunt) ultimately hopes her dad will walk her down the aisle. Shenanigans ensue as the men discover why they've been invited back to the tiny isle after 20 years and reacquaint with their mutual ex.

The story is heartfelt, buoyed by frequent song-and-dance interludes. It's peppered with cheeky, yet underdeveloped, supporting characters and a charismatic chorus that spends far too much time offstage. One downside is that the music often overpowers the singers, who own ABBA's ballads but disappear in the power pieces where you most want them to excel. That is, except for the encore — you'll want to stay after the bows for this dynamo finale.

Lisa Brescia as mother Donna leads the pack with presence and talent. Hunt's singing can be clear and lovely or reedy and breathless — a waver-ing performance pattern reflected by cast members throughout. In this female empowerment play, men largely take a backseat; however, potential patriarch John Hemphill stands out from the crowd as an impressive soloist. Even the groom (Jordan Dean) seems like an afterthought — at least until he takes off his shirt, to audible audience delight.

"Mamma Mia!" is a high-spirited musical romance that trusts in your willingness to love it. And audiences continue to prove they do, filling the house for 10 years — and onward.

Art and industry: Suzanne Farrell reclaims Balanchine

► The former ballerina's dance troupe honors the renowned choreographer ► It's a mutual love fest

A 30-year career as a path-breaking ballerina is a hard act to follow, but Suzanne Farrell has carved out a worthy second act. Her own ensemble, based at the Kennedy Center in Washington, D.C., dedicates itself primarily to the work of George Balanchine, whose muse she was for decades.

Making its Joyce debut in four Balanchine pieces, the troupe reveals many sides of the great choreographer. The program opens with "Haieff Divertimento," a rarely seen 1947 work that Farrell reconstructed. Some of her dancers look very young; Violeta Angelova, an experienced European performer, swims in an enormous tutu during a pas de deux from "Diamonds," partnered by Bulgarian Momchil Mladenov, the company's senior male.

One longs for the live music that's a hallmark of first-string Balanchine; here we make do with recordings. "Meditation," a startling 1963 duet to Tchaikovsky, communicates the passion Balanchine had for Farrell. The excellent Elisabeth Holowchuk channels the wild, free spirit of the young Farrell. Michael Cook seems to mourn her even as she's in his arms, pleading with her as she dances away.

The company does well by the 1957 "Agon," a Balanchine touchstone that strips the ballet vocabulary to pure line in response to Igor Stravinsky's groundbreaking score. In the rendering at the intimate Joyce there were echoes of the 1955 film "Rebel Without a Cause," which the choreographer, who loved American movies, undoubtedly knew. While the ballet's angular, splayed positions are as abstract and industrial as anything Balanchine made, the performers seem filled with the passion and frustration of mid-century teenagers, hitting their marks while longing to break free.

How to be the 'Boss'

► Kelsey Grammer keeps Chicago running — by whatever means necessary — in the new Starz drama

Kelsey Grammer's Tom Kane is the deeply ambitious, yet flawed (read: corrupt), mayor of Chicago in the new Starz drama "Boss." As the actor best known for his comedic chops — he played Dr. Frasier Crane for 20 years on "Cheers," then "Frasier" — takes a turn into the dramatic, here's how he tapped into his dark side.

Stray from the norm

After three failed attempts to return to comedic television post-"Frasier," Grammer decided to take a break.

"After my heart attack, which was three years ago, I spent the next several months looking at my own life," says the 56-year-old. "I cast my ... imaginative net over the next 30 or 40 years, whatever they may be. And I just decided I didn't want to have that story be my last story. And so I decided that it was time to make changes that involved my career as well as my personal life. And doing a drama started to make really good sense because it took me back to my roots. It took me back to things I believed in, in telling good stories."

► Kelsey Grammer stars as Mayor Tom Kane in "Boss," premiering Friday at 10 p.m. on Starz.

Be bad to be loved

Grammer likens Kane to the scheming Iago in Shakespeare's "Othello."

"Iago is one of the most liked characters in Shakespeare's canon, and he's the most extraordinarily manipulative person in history," Grammer says. "I think there's at least a kind of a similarity with [Kane]."

Kane, however, doesn't necessarily view himself as the bad guy.

"He's completely convinced that there's a working model and justification for doing anything you have to do to remain in power," Grammer says of the mayor. "It's just for the better good. On some level, he believes he's the one that's most qualified to make the decision ... to either eliminate an enemy or embrace an enemy and make something good happen."

And whatever you do, never let them see you sweat

The most powerful man in Chicago receives a devastating blow in the opening scenes of the pilot: He is diagnosed with Lewy body dementia, a rare disease associated with Alzheimer's.

"It's really a dramatic device ... for the benefit of raising the stakes in this guy's life," Grammer says. "What the overlay of this malady may do is force him into a position where he suddenly realizes that preserving his own place is the greatest good. He's a man of power, accustomed to power, and he will go kicking and screaming on his way down toward hell."

Public enemy?

"MEET ME AT THE PLAZA," NYTIMES.COM, OCT. 19. What is public? The word — derived from the Latin "populis" meaning "the people" — is typically used to describe groups of individuals. But the line has become increasingly blurred regarding corporations.

Tensions between private and public interests have blossomed since the NYPD convinced OWS protesters to make a home of Zuccotti Park. The park — once known by the Tahrir-esque One Liberty Plaza before being renamed in honor of a corporate ally on the city zoning board — is what is known as a "privately owned public space," a seemingly paradoxical legal entity born out of New York City's need to temper its glass, steel and concrete with usable green space. Property owners — in this case Brookfield Properties — receive lucrative zoning concessions in return for a public contribution and the stipulation that their rules governing the shared space be "reasonable." Who decides said reasonability? That remains a private matter. Before these protests, Brookfield's view of "reasonable" centered on restricting use of bicycles and skateboards. Recently, however, the corporation has come to rethink its linguistic assessment. Last week, notices circulated warning of new rules prohibiting "lying down on the ground" and "the placement of tarps or sleeping bags." That could be a huge problem as winter settles over the city.

Wealthy landlords are currently working on plans to prevent future occupations of public spaces. Says Steven Spinoia, president of the city's Real Estate Board: "If you can say that the plazas are closed between 1 a.m. and 5 a.m., I'm not sure who that's harming." Here's a hint: It's not him and his private-interest buddies.

Is that reasonable? It depends on who you ask.

Horoscope

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23. You won't have any trouble keeping up with the Joneses, because to your peers you are already a stellar attraction. Putting on pretenses to enhance your image won't be necessary.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22. Although at times you are inclined to think that no one cares about you, a situation might develop that'll prove how much everyone likes you.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21. When you relax, you're a charmer who impresses everyone with whom you're in contact. It will be one of those times when obvious approval will smother any feelings of rejection.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 19. An opportunity to help better your financial position will be orchestrated by someone who has a stake in your affairs. You may not know about this input, but you'll dig the results.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 20-Feb. 19. Although you may never realize the impact of your words, you'll have a faculty for saying all the right things that will uplift the spirits of another and change their world.

♓ Pisces Feb. 20-March 20. You don't have to achieve an understanding with everyone at work, only with those who are in a position to make your life easier.

♈ Aries March 21-April 19. When exchanging ideas with someone whose mind you respect, be more of a listener than a talker. Chances are he or she will offer some interesting information you can use.

♉ Taurus April 20-May 20. If confronted with a challenge by someone who has opposed you previously, don't back down. Proving what you have to offer is both productive and effective.

♊ Gemini May 21-June 20. You've had to learn to forge order out of chaos, because you have a talent for making a mess in the first place. Trust your gift and apply it without hesitation whenever needed.

♋ Cancer June 21-July 22. There's a good chance that something you wanted changed will be altered, but owing to someone else's influence, not yours. If it helps you, who cares?

♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 22. Because you are a fast thinker who possesses sound judgment, you should be able to come up with a solution to a problem that needs an instant, creative answer. Don't hesitate.

♍ Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22. With your natural resourcefulness, you'll have some ingenious concepts at your fingertips. Even though you may pull them out of thin air, the things you envision will be very doable.

The importance of shopping

If you had the Browns in last Sunday's game against the Raiders at +6.5, you probably gave up when they were down 24-7 in the fourth quarter. If you had them at +7, maybe you stayed on. But if you had +7.5, you knew you had a shot for a backdoor win.

Of course, the Browns rallied in garbage time and ended up losing by seven. The message: Shopping for the best line is a necessity, not a luxury. It's perhaps the No. 1 tool that separates "sharp" bettors from "square" bettors.

Tons of NFL games are decided by exactly three or seven points. Sportsbooks know this. So simply shopping for the best possible number could very well add up to a lot of profit.

How? If you bet online, use multiple sites. And don't look past buying from 2.5 to 3. ADAM LEVITAN

Rex backtracks in advance of Bolts

► Jets ready for Chargers with spectre of Ryan hanging over game ► Coach apologizes to Norv Turner again ► Underrated rivalry grows a little hotter

It seems that even when Rex Ryan isn't trying to be controversial he just can't help himself.

On a conference call Wednesday, the Jets head coach tried to compliment this week's opponent, San Diego.

"Well, I think I would have had a couple of rings," Ryan said. "I'm telling you, those teams were loaded. There's no question about it."

Thursday morning, the New York tabloids read "Ring Ding" and "No Ring Circus." Not exactly how Ryan had hoped his comments would be interpreted.

Chargers head coach Norv Turner responded in kind.

"I didn't have a chance to ask him this, but I was wondering if he had those rings with the ones he's guaranteed the last couple of years."

Ryan apologized again — after calling Turner privately Wednesday — at Thursday's press conference.

"It's all on me; I'm guilty absolutely," Ryan said. "I did call Norv. I won't get into that conversation but it was unintentional. I think we're even because he did get me with a good comeback, there's no question."

All of this adds to a rivalry that has gone overlooked in the NFL. The Jets won at San Diego, 17-13, in the divisional round of the playoffs in Ryan's first year with the team. And, of course, more infamously beat them in the

The cold, hard

football facts

A look at this weekend's NFL action through the eyes of the football stat experts at Coldhardfootballfacts.com.

Making life

tough for QBs

Winning in the NFL is all about passing well on offense and stifling opposing QBs. One way we measure the latter at Cold, Hard Football Facts is with defensive passing yards per attempt. It takes into account the impact of sacks.

Pittsburgh, despite a slow start, has a defense built for the playoffs. High-powered New England, meanwhile, has a critical weak link on 'D' that's likely to snap in the postseason.

Some notable teams in defensive passing yards per attempt:

1. Pittsburgh (4.5 YPA)
2. Baltimore (5.19 YPA)
3. Detroit (5.22 YPA)
8. N.Y. Jets (5.9 YPA)
9. San Francisco (6.0 YPA)
14. N.Y. Giants (6.3 YPA)
18. Philadelphia (6.5 YPA)
21. Green Bay (7.1 YPA)
32. New England (7.9 YPA)

Ffchamps.com's

'Start and Sit'

Start him

Bears QB Jay Cutler has been as hit-or-miss as a Nicolas Cage movie, but Chicago's field general is coming off a two-TD effort against Minnesota. We expect Cutler to put in a strong encore performance against Tampa Bay's 26th-ranked pass defense at Wembley Stadium.

Sit him

Jets QB Mark Sanchez averaged just 162 passing yards with a total of three TD passes over the last three weeks as the Jets committed more to the ground attack. He's not a good bet to do much.

WEEKEND FOOTBALL BETTING GUIDE

FALCONS 3-3
LIONS 5-1

SUNDAY, 1 P.M.

Line: Lions -3.5 (O/U 47.5)
The Scoop: The Lions haven't ruled RB Jahvid Best out, but the line did drop a full point. Stay tuned.
Pick: Lions

TEXANS 3-3
TITANS 3-2

SUNDAY, 1 P.M.

Line: Titans -3 (O/U 44.5)
The Scoop: Texans are 0-5 in last five games as underdog. Titans were 1-7 after the bye last year. Pick 'em.
Pick: Titans

SEAHAWKS 2-3
BROWNS 2-3

SUNDAY, 1 P.M.

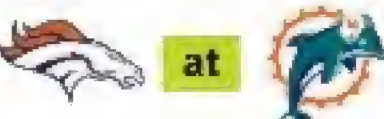

Line: Browns -3 (O/U 41)
The Scoop: Charlie Whitehurst will start and 'Hawks are getting points versus offensively challenged teams.
Pick: Seahawks

REDSKINS 3-2
PANTHERS 1-5

SUNDAY, 1 P.M.

Line: Panthers -2.5 (O/U 43)
The Scoop: In John Beck we trust. 'Skins are 4-0 ATS in last four in this series and underdog is 9-0.
Pick: Redskins

BRONCOS 1-4
DOLPHINS 0-5

SUNDAY, 1 P.M.

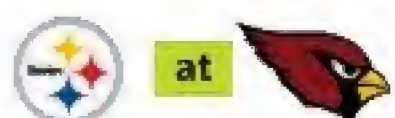

Line: Dolphins -1.5 (O/U 43)
The Scoop: Road dog lock. This is a virtual home game for Tim Tebow.
Pick: Broncos

CHARGERS 4-1
JETS 3-3

SUNDAY, 1 P.M.

Line: Chargers -2 (O/U 43.5)
The Scoop: SD has yet to record a signature win and are 1-5 ATS in last six in this series. Don't trust Norv.
Pick: Jets

STEELERS 4-2
CARDINALS 1-4

SUNDAY, 4:05 P.M.

Line: Steelers -4 (O/U 41.5)
The Scoop: Steelers' 'D' is tops versus the pass and ARZ is pass-happy. Plus, PITT is 17-3 when favored in last 20.
Pick: Steelers

CHIEFS 2-3
RAIDERS 4-2

SUNDAY, 4:05 P.M.

Line: Raiders -4 (O/U 42.5)
The Scoop: Underdog is 8-0 ATS in last eight in this series. Ignore that. Al Davis memorial tour rolls on.
Pick: Raiders

RAMS 0-5
COWBOYS 2-3

SUNDAY, 4:15 P.M.

Line: Cowboys -11.5 (O/U 44)
The Scoop: Rams are winless and haven't covered a spread all season. Oh, and they're BAD at football.
Pick: Cowboys

PACKERS 6-0
VIKINGS 1-5

SUNDAY, 4:15 P.M.

Line: Packers -9 (O/U 46.5)
The Scoop: Pack swept series in '10 and 21-10 ATS in 31 division games.
Pick: Packers

Bears vs. Buccaneers (1 p.m. Sunday)

LINE: Bears -1
(O/U 44)

KEY INJURIES: WR Devin Hester (chest) probable. T Gabe Carimi (knee) questionable. RB LeGarrette Blount (knee) out. C Jeff Faine (biceps) probable. DT Gerald McCoy questionable. THE SCOOP: Can we please stop playing football in England? It's rainy, the Wembley field was built for soccer and the game isn't even sold out. Anyway, for betting purposes, this has all the makings of a slow burner: ground and pound, with a lot of defense, something both squads are equipped for. The Bucs played in London in 2009 (in a 35-7 blowout loss) so they have some experience with the travel/weather. They are also 7-2 ATS in their last nine games as the betting underdog. PICK: Buccaneers.

SAINTS 4-2

SUNDAY, 8:20 P.M.

Line: Saints -14 (O/U 48.5)
The Scoop: Saints have failed to cover for the past two weeks, but here come the Colts. At the Super-Dome, where NO is 2-0 ATS. Meanwhile, Indy is an absolute mess. Fans are calling for Jim Caldwell's job and the Colts offense ranks 31st in yards and 28th in points. Good luck keeping up with Drew Brees & Co.
Pick: Saints

RAVENS 4-1
JAGUARS 1-5

MONDAY, 8:30 P.M.

Line: Ravens -7.5 (O/U 39)
The Scoop: Man, can we please start flexing Monday night games? This has all the makings of the Heidi Bowl — without the dramatic comeback. Ravens come in 4-1 ATS, 5-1 against the number in their last six Monday nighters and have won seven of last eight in this series. Play the over, it could get ugly.
Pick: Ravens

W. VIRGINIA NO. 11, 5-1
SYRACUSE 4-2

FRIDAY, 8 P.M.

Line: West Virginia -14.5
The Scoop: You have to figure the Orange can keep it close — the Mountaineers are a paper tiger.
Pick: Syracuse

N. CAROLINA 5-2
CLEMSON NO. 8, 7-0

SATURDAY, NOON

Line: Clemson -11
The Scoop: The over has hit in six of the Tigers' last eight games, and five of six at home.
Pick: Clemson

KANSAS ST. NO. 12, 6-0
KANSAS 2-4

SATURDAY, NOON

Line: Kansas State -11.5
The Scoop: Kansas State is going to go all Bo Jackson/Marcus Allen over the nation's worst defense.
Pick: Kansas State

OKLA. ST. NO. 6, 6-0
MISSOURI 3-3

SATURDAY, NOON

Line: Oklahoma State -7.5
The Scoop: Cowboys are 5-1 ATS this season and thinking national title averaging 49.2 points per contest.
Pick: Oklahoma State

BC 1-5
VA. TECH NO. 16, 6-1

SATURDAY, 3 P.M.

Line: Virginia Tech -21
The Scoop: BC couldn't make up 21 points last week. Or this week.
Pick: Virginia Tech

AUBURN NO. 19, 5-2
LSU NO. 1, 7-0

SATURDAY, 3:30 P.M.

Line: LSU -22
The Scoop: Maybe if the game was in Auburn (5-14-1 in Baton Rouge). No, probably not even then.
Pick: LSU

OREGON NO. 9, 5-1
COLORADO 1-6

SATURDAY, 3:30 P.M.

Line: Oregon -31
The Scoop: Ducks are banged up (LaMichael James, Darron Thomas), and COL is 3-0-1 as home dog.
Pick: Colorado

AIR FORCE 3-3
BOISE STATE NO. 5, 6-0

SATURDAY, 6 P.M.

Line: Boise State -31.5
The Scoop: All the trends point to Boise (10-0 in October, 6-0 SU, 4-2 ATS), and they covered 32 last week.
Pick: Boise State

TENNESSEE 3-3
ALABAMA NO. 2, 7-0

SATURDAY, 7:15 P.M.

Line: Alabama -30
The Scoop: Roll Tide. 'Bama giving up just seven points per game — and Tennessee has QB issues.
Pick: Alabama

WISCONSIN NO. 4, 6-0
MICH. ST. NO. 15, 5-1

SATURDAY, 8 P.M.

Line: Wisconsin -8
The Scoop: Both are chalk machines. Flip a coin, or take the points.

Debate over fights in hockey continues

History vs. barbarism argument rages Hockey News' Proteau is loud critic of fighting in NHL Isles' Tavares admits some games out-of-control

Fighting in hockey has been argued for decades and there is no end in sight. Those who support fighting argue it keeps the game honorable and is a fan and television ratings attraction, while its critics view it as pointless and barbaric.

Among the strongest advocates for the elimination of fighting in the game is The Hockey News columnist Adam Proteau. He is the author of a soon-to-be-released book that challenges the NHL to clean up its on-ice product titled "Fighting The Good Fight: Why On-Ice Violence Is Killing Hockey."

"It's what I consider the exceptionalism that says 'We're different from all those other sports.' The NFL, where guys will grab each other's testicles in a scrum, somehow that's less manly or less forceful than what happens in the NHL. I don't buy it," Proteau told Metro by phone this week. "It's an unnatural part of hockey."

The website Hockey-fights.com reports there have been 34 fights in the first 74 games this year, and it projects that there will be 565 fights by the end of the 2011-12 regular season. Moreover, there have been 3,754 fights in the 7,448 regular season games that have been contested, as of this writing, since the lock-out. That works out to an average of one fight every two games.

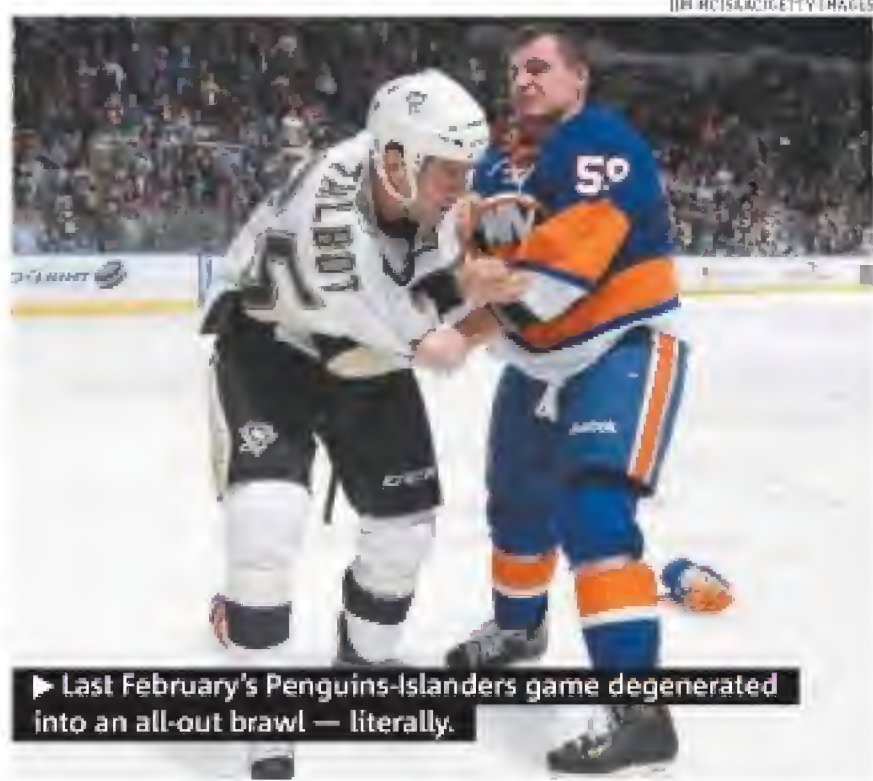

Last February, the Penguins and Islanders combined for 342 penalty minutes, 15 fighting majors and 10 game misconduct penalties in the Islanders' 9-3 win.

It was a game that left a black eye on the NHL.

"I don't think many people really thought it was right or it was hockey; obviously it was a game that had a lot of emotion. I guess that's the way it kind of worked out," said Islanders center John Tavares. "I think that game is in its own kind of category. Obviously, that was a little bit over the top and really wasn't much of a hockey game after the first half."

HEAVY DUTY EQUIPMENT MECHANIC TRACK EQUIPMENT MAINTAINER

EXAM NO. 2601 FILING DATE: 10/5/11 - 10/25/11 APPLICATION FEE: $68.00 (non-refundable)

SALARY: $29.3700 per hour for a 40-hour work week, increasing to $31.8725 after 36 months of service.

JOB DESCRIPTION: Maintain, repair and operate electromechanical, electronic, hydraulic, and pneumatic equipment used in the construction, maintenance and repair of railroad track in New York City Transit's subway system.

REQUIREMENTS: By the last day of the Application Period you must meet one of the following requirements:

- 3 years of full-time satisfactory experience as a journeyman/journeywoman mechanic (i.e., fully trained, proficient, knowledgeable, experienced, and competent) in the testing, operation, maintenance, alteration, and repair of the mechanical, electrical, hydraulic, and pneumatic components and systems of (A) Heavy equipment of the type used in construction or the maintenance and repair of track, such as pneumatic and hydraulic compressors, drills, pile drivers, payloaders, earthmovers, tractors, and conveyors, including gasoline and diesel engines; or (B) Large transportation vehicles such as trucks, buses, marine vessels, or aircraft; or
 - 2 years of experience as described in "1" above, if such experience has been exclusively with a railroad doing maintenance and repair of track equipment; or
 - Completion of a 4-year full-time apprenticeship in an electro-mechanical trade recognized by the NY State Department of Labor, the U.S. Department of Labor, or any state apprenticeship council which is recognized by the U.S. Department of Labor.
- For the above journey-level experience in "1" or "2" above to be credited, it must be preceded by one of the following:
- 2 years of full-time satisfactory experience as a mechanic's helper, apprentice or trainee performing or assisting in the work described above; or
 - Graduation from a recognized trade school or technical school approved by a state's Department of Education or comparable agency, with a major course of study in a mechanical or electrical trade, or a closely related field, totaling 600 hours; or
 - Graduation from a vocational high school with a major course of study in a mechanical or electrical trade or a closely related field. This school must be approved by a state's Department of Education or comparable agency; or
 - An A.A.S. degree or higher in electromechanical, electrical or electronic technology, or a closely related field, from an accredited college or university, accredited by regional, national, professional or specialized agencies recognized as accrediting bodies by the U.S. Secretary of Education and by the Council for Higher Education Accreditation (CHEA)

The average number of fights per game in the NHL, according to the statistics at Hockey-fights.com, in the 7,448 games since the NHL lockout.

► Kenrick Ellis, here in the preseason, is finally getting a chance to show what he can do on the active roster.

Ellis moving on up

► Little-used defensive lineman finally getting opportunity to show off
 ► Jets' big risk is now paying off ► Rookie stays humble about his success

Rookie nose tackle Kenrick Ellis went from not knowing if he'd play this year to suddenly becoming a developing part of the Jets defensive line.

The Jets' third-round pick made his NFL debut last Monday night after spending all five previous games on the inactive roster. After praising Ellis during preseason camp, head coach Rex Ryan didn't activate the player until Week 6.

All Ellis did was go out and get three tackles in limited snaps.

"The game is not too big for him. He was telling me practice is tougher," head coach Rex Ryan said. "He's what we think he can be. I think he's got a chance to be really something, and a young man that's really working hard. It's good to see him have some success."

It has been a winding road for Ellis to get here. He went from being one of the nation's most highly-recruited linemen in high school to being kicked out of South Carolina for repeated violations of team policy. He took his skills to Hampton, where he dominated competition for two years, but was also arrested for assault. His trial for that incident will happen after the season.

Ellis won't talk about the incident, and he remains relatively humble about the strong start to his NFL career.

"For me, it's just a matter of getting it done. It was fun and I'm glad that it happened, but it is just the first step," Ellis told Metro. "I want to get back to work and get ready for the next game."

Yanks scout Darvish

The Yankees' rotation might have a new name in it next year. And I am not talking about free agent C.J. Wilson.

Yankees general manager Brian Cashman told ESPN on Thursday that the organization had scouted Japanese starter Yu Darvish this season.

"We scout Japanese baseball the same way we scout the American League and the National League," Cashman said. "We had a wave of scouts there all season."

Darvish, 25, has been speculated about for years concerning a move to MLB. Darvish's Japanese team, the Nippon Ham Fighters, has not yet posted the righty as MLB rules require, and Cashman wouldn't say whether the Yankees would enter the bidding even if he is.

The 6-foot-5, 220-pound Darvish was 18-6 with a 1.44 ERA this season.
